

Authors Bio

Henry Anyimadu, MD, FACP, FIDSA, AAHIVS, is Chief of Infectious Diseases for Hartford HealthCare's Central Region and an Associate Professor of Medicine at the University of Connecticut. Trained at the University of Ghana and at Columbia University/Harlem Hospital in New York, he brings rigorous science to the bedside, shaping care across communities. He is a two-time recipient of the Excellence in Teaching Award at the University of Connecticut. He leads regional antibiotic stewardship and directs infectious diseases fellowship training, mentoring the next generation of clinicians. He co-founded the Teen Volunteer Medical Internship program at the Hospital of Central Connecticut, expanding early exposure to medicine. During the COVID-19 pandemic, he supported CDC clinician guidance through the Infectious Diseases Society of America and served as a trusted public voice for clarity and compassion. In Beyond the Cure, he brings readers into the human stories behind antibiotics: their power, their pitfalls, and a better way forward.
